The All-College Council has reconsidered its approval of the one-paragraph statement on the Communication Policy. After deliberating the issue of individuals rewriting policy proposals after they have been approved through the governance process, the ACC unanimously reaffirmed its support of the original proposal (below).

POLICY STATEMENT ON COMMUNICATION:

Quinsigamond Community College expects that students who earn an associate degree from this institution will be able to speak, listen, write, and be able to communicate effectively in English with individuals in different aspects of their lives.

It is the responsibility not only of English faculty, but of all teachers to assist students to attain these communication goals. To that end, it is the policy of the College that these goals should be addressed in some manner by each program or area of the curriculum. Students should be able to demonstrate effective communication skill as a condition of completion of every associate degree program offered by the College.
