

Suggested Faculty Resources For Writing in the Disciplines

Books

Bean, John. Engaging Ideas: The Professor's Guide to Integrating Writing, Critical Thinking, and Active Learning in the Classroom. San Francisco, CA: Jossey-Bass, 1996.

This practical guide is for teachers from any discipline who want to design interest-provoking writing and critical thinking activities and incorporate them into their courses in a way that encourages inquiry, exploration, discussion and debate.

Gottschalk, Katherine and Keith Hjortshoj. The Elements of Teaching Writing: A Resource for Instructors in All Disciplines. New York: Bedford/St. Martin's, 2004.

Accommodating a wide range of teaching styles and class sizes, Elements offers advice about how to design effective writing assignments and how to respond to and evaluate student writing in any course.

Walvoord, Barbara E. Helping Students Write Well: A Guide for Teachers in All Disciplines, 2nd ed. NY: MLA, 1986.

This text is separated into two parts: The first part gives practical guides, advice, and examples on how to implement writing assignments. The second part is geared more to non-writing instructors and gives reasons why writing in their course is beneficial.

Online Resources

The WAC Journal* <http://wac.colostate.edu/journal/>

This peer-reviewed journal is published annually and focuses on any and all subjects concerned with writing across curriculums. Articles focus on both the theoretical and praxis of teaching and assessing writing across the disciplines. The website archives all volumes and provides PDFs for each article.

Across the Disciplines: Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Language, Learning, and Academic Writing*. <http://wac.colostate.edu/atd/>

Peer-reviewed journal published annually concerned with the pedagogical issues along with the political, social, and technological issues with interdisciplinary writing as well. The site archives all volumes and provides PDFs for each article.

Purdue (OWL) Online Writing Lab* <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/>

An invaluable source with multiple guides, handouts, and resources concerned with writing.